FORT Building

Building forts is an activity that offers so many skills for campers of various ages. Creating a fort from their own imaginations provides feelings of both accomplishment and pride towards the finished product. Campers will work collaboratively to move, measure, compare, and test out large tree branches to create their forts. Without any effort children are using their mathematic, scientific, social, and language skills to form these wonderful creations. We can't wait to see what our campers will come up with!
